

Definition of Love:

Love is acceptance, understanding and tenderness. It does not strangle, grab or possess. It sees the other person, not as a God or an idol, but as a human being, possessing the strength and weaknesses of all human beings. Love doesn't ask to be served, but only when it may serve. Quiet, gentle, trusting, it is composed of affection and desires without anxieties.